The Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) voted today, May 3, 2023, to raise the Fed Funds Target Rate by 25 basis points.

Here's What You Need to Know:

The Federal Reserve raised rates by 25 basis points, the tenth rate increase since March of last year. The continued strength of the labor market and sticky core inflation ultimately led to the FOMC's decision. However, in the face of mounting uncertainty, the recent softening of economic conditions and a tightening of lending standards may lead the Fed to pause at the next FOMC meeting on June 14.
